

Holston Home, Capitol Theatre Partner For 'Heaven Bound' Showing

Actor, Writer Will Speak After Free Movie Nov. 9

Holston United Methodist Home for Children and the Capitol Theatre will partner to present the movie "Heaven Bound" as a free community event Thursday, Nov. 9.

The movie will begin at 6:30 p.m. There is no cost to attend. Concessions will be available for purchase.

Seating will be on a first-come, first-serve basis. Groups are encouraged to call ahead to secure seating, a news release says.

The film's writer, producer and actor Torry Martin will be guest speaker after the movie.

"We are looking forward to having Mr. Torry Martin, actor, writer, producer of 'Heaven Bound,' attend the showing," said Ella Price, director of food services at Holston Home and point person for the event. "I had the privilege of meeting Torry at a Christian writers conference several years ago where he was the keynote speaker. He is the funniest guy I've ever met, and I love his testimony."

Martin is an award-winning actor, screenwriter, author and comedian. He has written for Focus on the Family's "Adventures in Odyssey" and has co-written screenplays for several films.

As an actor, he has appeared in over a dozen movies, including Hallmark's "The Ultimate Legacy" and the feature film "Heaven Bound."

"At Holston Home it is our mission to guide boys and girls to be the men and women God has made them to be," said Bradley Williams, CEO of Holston Home. "Heaven Bound is a wonderful movie about how sometimes things don't always go the way we planned, but, with God's guidance, we can make the best of difficult times. We look forward to this exciting night out with families in downtown Greeneville."

The news release says guests will be treated to the "Heaven Bound" screening using the Capitol Theatre's new state-of-the-art laser projector, in addition to lights on the recently renovated marquee.
